development and was managing director of TRUMPF's diode laser facility in the USA.

Dr. Berthold Schmidt (54) will succeed Peter Leibinger as the new Chief Technology Officer (CTO) on the TRUMPF Managing Board. The physicist has been the Managing Director of TRUMPF Photonic Components in Ulm since April 2020 and has been with TRUMPF since 2013, including as CTO for research and development of the Laser Technology Business Division and as Head of Corporate Research for Corporate R&D.

In the extended management team, Peter Bokelmann (62) is leaving the company as General Counsel for reasons of age.

Dr. Hagen Zimer's successor as Managing Director of TRUMPF in Schramberg will be Dr. Björn Dymke (47). Dymke has been with TRUMPF since 2008 and was most recently Head of Finance and Controlling at the TRUMPF Group in Ditzingen. Prior to this, Dymke, a business economist, was responsible for finance and administration of the TRUMPF subsidiaries in North America for three years.

Dr. Berthold Schmidt's successor as Managing Director of TRUMPF Photonic Components in Ulm will be announced in time for July 1, 2023.

Chairwoman of the Managing Board Dr. Nicola Leibinger-Kammüller and TRUMPF Managing Board members Dr.-Ing. Mathias Kammüller (CDO), Dr. Lars Grünert (CFO), Oliver Maassen (CHRO), Dr.-Ing. Stephan Mayer (CEO Machine Tools) will retain their current functions.

TRUMPF CEO Dr. Nicola Leibinger-Kammüller commented on the changes announced today: "As Chairman of the Supervisory Board of TRUMPF, Dr. Hambrecht has been of tremendous service to our company. Thanks to his prudence and expertise, we as the Managing Board were able to make important decisions even in difficult times. I thank him and the other three colleagues who are also leaving for their dedication and loyalty. They greatly contributed to the success of the company in recent years. With the current changes in the Managing Board and my brother's chairmanship of the Supervisory Board, we
